this book explores china s encounter with architecture and modernity in the tumultuous epoch before communism an encounter that was mediated not by a singular notion of modernism emanating from the west but that was uniquely multifarious deriving from a variety of sources both from the west and importantly from the east the heterogeneous origins of modernity in china are what make its experience distinctive and its architectural encounters exceptional these experiences are investigated through a re evaluation of established knowledge of the subject within the wider landscape of modern art practices in china the study draws on original archival and photographic material from different artistic genres and architecturally concentrates on china s engagement with the west through the treaty ports and leased territories the emergence of architecture as a profession in china and japan s omnipresence not least in manchuria which reached its apogee in the puppet state of manchukuo the study s geographically temporally and architecturally inclusive approach framed by the concept of multiple modernities questions the application of conventional theories of modernity or post colonialism to the chinese situation by challenging conventional modernist historiography that has marginalised the experiences of the west s other for much of the last century this book proposes different ways of grappling with and comprehending the distinction and complexity of china s experiences and its encounter with architectural modernity although the disciplines of architecture and structural engineering have both experienced their own historical development their interaction has resulted in many fascinating and delightful structures to take this interaction to a higher level there is a need to stimulate the inventive and creative design of architectural structures and to persuade
